Daring Daylight Holdup Kidnap Robber Forces Local Woman Into Car... Drives To Beach... Gets $70

Police today are searching for a kidnap-holdup man who at gun point calmly forced a Daly City woman into his car Tuesday morning, drove her to Fleishhacker beach, emptied her purse of $70, ordered her out of the car, and drove away.

Victim of the daring daylight holdup is an expectant mother, Mrs. Sadie Cross, 30, 445 Santa Barbara.

Mrs. Cross, who failed to report the robbery until two hours after it occurred, told police that she left her home at 10 p.m. Tuesday to take her monthly house payment to the Daly City Bank of America.

Near the intersection of Theta avenue, a negro of slight build, wearing a grey overcoat and a hat whose brim was almost down to the rims of heavy glasses, stepped up and asked her where Santa Barbara street was.

She told him he was on Santa Barbara, and started to walk on when he stepped up to her and jammed a small black revolver into her side.

"Do you have any money," he asked.

When Mrs. Cross said "No," the robber ordered her to get into an old green coupe parked near the curb of the intersection.

The assailant, still holding the revolver, walked around the other side of the car, got in behind the wheel, pocketed the gun and headed toward Junipero Serra boulevard.

On the way to Fleishhacker beach, the robber, described to be about 40-years-old by Mrs. Cross, said nothing to his victim.

Nor then, or at any other time did he make any effort to molest her, Mrs. Cross said.

When he parked at the beach, the holdup man asked Mrs. Cross for her purse. Calmly she opened the purse, counted the money, and put the purse and money down on the seat beside him.

"Get Out," "Now, get out," he said. "Face the ocean. Stay like that for a half-hour. If you move, you're going to get killed."

After she heard the car drive away, Mrs. Cross told police that she walked all the way back to Westlake avenue where her husband is employed. She said she had no money for car fare.

Today police are frankly wondering how the holdup man had the courage to perform a daylight robbery, and how he had knowledge that Mrs. Cross was carrying money.

LOCAL BUILDING OFF 80 PER CENT

Home Construction In Daly City Area Hit By War, Weather

Today's critical war situation was reflected in Daly City construction last month. Total value of building for December was $170,700 as compared to $1,045,189 for a year ago.

The biggest blow was to home construction. Last month there were only 16 homes built at a total value of $123,400. During December, 1949, there were seven times as many homes built at a total value of 973,339.

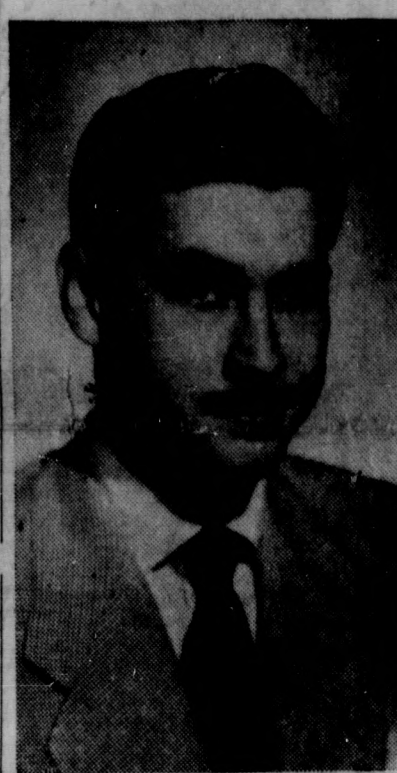

George Hopman, Daly City building inspector, noted that bad weather and the recent government regulations on home building are responsible for the great cut back in construction.

Future Dim
"Things are going to get much worse in the coming months," Hopman believes.

The two companies doing the greatest amount of home building last month were United Construction and William Lagomarsino with seven homes each at Franch and Garden Valley districts respectively.

Alterations last month accounted for only $3,300. There were no commercial buildings under construction. During December 1949 nine commercial structures were started at a total value of $64,130.

California Water Company Requests "Necessary" Boost

JAMES G. BLACK

James G. Black, Public Relations Representative of the National Automobile Club, will speak before an assembly of students and teachers of the Jefferson Union High School on January 8, 1951, at 11 a.m., on the vitally important subject of "Driver Education and Public Safety."

Black will discuss some of the most common types of accidents involving teen-agers and the ways of preventing these accidents, followed by a dramatic sound film on Driver Education.

Assemblies such as this are part of the year-around program of Public Safety and Accident Prevention sponsored by the National Automobile Club in cooperation with the California Association of Insurance Agents, and endorsed by the California Highway Patrol, Department of Education, National Safety Council, and local enforcement agencies. The presentation is designed to develop interest and attitudes necessary in safe driving.

Black, who is a member of the National Safety Council and the Highway Safety Committee of the California State Chamber of Commerce, makes his headquarters in the Southern California Division of the National Automobile Club.

Read To Live

Atomic Pamphlets To Be Distributed

Distribution of 3,600 copies of "Survival Under Atomic Attack" will begin early this month in Daly City.

Some 1,500 copies already have been distributed. The new pamphlets are part of the second million copies made this week by the State Office of Civil Defense.

The booklet, embracing 32 pages, is an official publication of the Federal Civil Defense Administration explaining, in simple language, what to do in the event of atomic attack and how to do it.

The state is reprinting the booklet at its own expense. The first 1,000,000 copies were exhausted soon after they left the printers in October. The second million are earmarked for homes from Copper, on the Oregon border, to Calexico. A third million is contemplated so there will be one in every household.

The Office of Civil Defense, in planning for the distribution, struck an arbitrary figure of three and a half persons to a family in the state and is sending copies into each area on that basis.

In announcing the latest printing, Maj. Gen. Walter M. Robertson, director of Civil Defense, said: "The booklet is one that should be read by every family and every individual so all the people will be prepared if attack comes. The state is doing its part in making the copies available to the communities. The communities can do no less for their citizens."

Mrs. Marie Bricker

Long Time Resident Dies Saturday

A long time resident of Daly City, Mrs. Marie E. Bricker, 53, 313 Peoria street, died at St. Luke's Hospital in San Francisco Saturday.

Her death followed a three weeks' illness. She was confined to the hospital only a few days after she heard that her son, Pvt. James Bricker, had suffered gunshot wounds in the battle of Korea. Pvt. Bricker flew home from a hospital in Japan to attend Mrs. Bricker's funeral Tuesday.

Requiem high mass was celebrated at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church Tuesday morning for Mrs. Bricker. The rosary was recited Monday evening at the W. C. Lasswell & Co. chapel. Interment was at Holy Cross Cemetery.

A native of Los Angeles, Mrs. Bricker was well known in Daly City.

She is survived by her widower, Fred Jr., who left his job as apprentice with the Daly City Record Friday to join the Army Air Force; James; Leo, also in the Marines and scheduled for overseas assignment in the near future; Claudia; Francis; William; and Charles Bricker.

There are also Mrs. Louise Munoz, Mrs. Florence Kergler, Mrs. Josephine Murray, Mrs. Claire Bolcetti and Mrs. Frances Camilleri.

HIKE SLATED FOR FEBRUARY 1

Company Asserts SF Wholesale Boost Necessitates Rise

Broadmoor water rates will go up 14 per cent February 1... That is if the California Water Service Company is allowed to boost current rates.

The rate hike was asked this week in the company's petition to the state public utilities commission. The company said the increases were needed if San Francisco was granted its wholesale water rate boost. San Francisco sells the water to the company.

Rates Quoted
As proposed, the rate for less than 600 gallons of water in Broadmoor would go from 36 cents to 39 cents. Those who use over 600 gallons would pay 24.2 cents as compared to the present rate of 21 cents.

The company asserted that the San Francisco hike would necessitate raising at least $6,040 more in Broadmoor from water rates.

Daly City would not be affected by the proposed hike as the city has its own water system. The current water rate for Daly City is based on a minimum charge of $1.25 for 300 cubic feet of water (2,250 gallons). Broadmoor residents pay close to $5.00 for the same amount of water.

Firemen Wanted

Applications Taken By City

Jobs are now open with the newly organized Daly City fire department, the city announced this week.

Applications for the position of firemen may be obtained at the City Hall, room 23, 75 Wellington avenue. The applications must be filed with the Secretary of the Civil Service Board on or before Friday, January 19.

Qualifications for firemen are: one year's residence within the city of Daly City; age 21 to 35 inclusive; good health; completion of accredited high school education or equivalent.

At this time two more firemen are needed for the Daly City department. They will be chosen from the top two in the examination to be given at some later date. Others who pass the examination will be kept on a list and chosen from time to time as the need arises.

HOW IT LOOKS FROM A CORNER

By BILL KATZ

WE NEED TO LAUGH

One sure cure for our present world troubles is a good laugh.

Let the peoples of the world laugh heartily for one minute a day and the threat of war would be annihilated.

This panacea might not have worked during World War II... the Germans are notable for their lack of humor. However, there is no reason to believe it isn't a suitable solution for present world conditions.

Americans have always been quick to laugh. This has been the key to democracy. No dictator could stand for five minutes when half the comedians of the day mimicked his stance, his hair cut, or his ability to woo the women.

Good Humor
The Russians, divorced from Communism, are much like Americans in their intuitive sense of a joke. Anyone familiar with the people will readily agree that a Russian's good natured view of life is nurtured from an ability to laugh.

Even the Chinese, as born out by their philosophy (again divorced from Communism), are a people who can see past the follies of the politicians and the serious minded to the essential humor of man's lot. Their laughter, to be sure, is more subtle than either American or Russian, but it runs through their lives like fine strands of silk.

Inheritance
There is more than laughter upon which these three peoples have a common inheritance, but it is the essential factor understood and respected by all men.

Let us imagine that at one of the United Nations conferences the politicians took a good, long view of their harangues. Let us imagine that for once they could see the truth of the folly and futility of man's present flight towards doom. Let us imagine that suddenly the polite diplomat's smile widened in

AIR RAID WARNINGS HARD TO HEAR

The sound of doom's trumpets is mighty loud. We wish we could say the same thing about the Daly City air raid warnings that are supposed to postpone the day when the trumpets sound for you and me.

Last Friday at 11 a. m. four air raid whistles and sirens blew their respective tops. More than six blocks away the noise of these warnings was stifled by the sound of a bird's chirp or a poker chip falling.

Most people weren't even aware that Daly City had had its first air raid warning. These same people, come a real air raid, will be past the stage of awareness before they hear anything but the harps of heaven.

There's a simple cure to Daly City's problems... more and louder sirens and whistles. Also, the warnings that sounded Friday could be extended for more than half a second... say for a full half minute... so as to really blast instead of whisper.

Another solution would be to have all available fire engines and police cars sound off with their respective sirens.

These air raid warnings are going to sound each Friday at 11 a. m. for the next several weeks. We hope that next time even the deaf will hear again.

I.P.S.—As planned, the air raid sirens will blast every Friday at 11 a. m. That's just fine for a few weeks, but let's hope the enemy never gets the idea. Imagine a real enemy plan winging its way in at 11 a. m. some Friday. Most of us won't wake up to the fact that the alarm is something more than a practice until an explosion blows it into our heads. We'd say that the 11 a. m. schedule should be changed from time to time.)

DALY CITY FIREMEN KILL FIRST '51 BLAZE

While the rest of Daly City was sleeping off its New Year's cheer, local firemen were busy with their first blaze of 1951.

At 12:15 a.m. Tuesday Mrs. Spencer, 351 Rhine street, called firemen. She said the house was flooded with smoke.

Three companies answered the alarm, and took about 15 minutes to kill a small fire which had developed in the fireplace behind the Spencer's fireplace.

DALY CITY MAN OPENS NEW YEAR ON ONE LEG

Getting off to the New Year on one leg, Warren Hemingway, 37, 25 Allemany, has his left leg in a cast today.

The Daly City motorcycle enthusiast was riding his favorite machine up Mission street at 1:30 p.m. New Year's Eve when he suddenly lost control of the bike.

A moment later he was put in the Daly City ambulance and on his way to Junipero Serra hospital. There he was treated for a broken left leg.

A Thief's New Year

Burglar Celebrates In Daly City Home

Some people never rest from work, even on New Year's. Take, for example, the burglar who broke into the Frank Giuliani home, 700A Niantic, New Year's Eve.

Entering through an open side window of the home, the thief proceeded to ransack the house. Going from room to room he opened all the drawers, upset the furniture, and generally made a mess of the place.

After they had made a brief check of their home, the Giulianis were first inclined to believe that the thief had marked the New Year by raising havoc, but by taking nothing. However, a more thorough check revealed that the "visitor" had removed a 17 jewel woman's wrist watch.

Meanwhile, New Year's day, while the rest of Daly City was cleaning up the shambles of scores of parties, the Giulianis were straightening up the work of their unwanted intruder.

DALY CITY MIGHTY POOR

AVERAGE HOLDINGS HERE ONLY $468

If you're an average Daly City resident, you have $468 to your name... at least that's the contention of study released this week by the state chamber of commerce.

That's not much money, but it's not bad considering the chamber lists Daly City residents with the poorest income of 22 cities in San Mateo county.

Hillsborough leads the list with a per capita figure of $3,618. And what city is second? Why, Colma, where the per capita figure is $2,621.

Atherton Scores
Atherton is third with $2,089 and

Palo Alto is fourth with $1,464 per person. These are the bare statistics. However, a short analysis of the situation will show that they are only about half right.

While the average income may be low or high in these cities, the total value of the city is based on the assessed valuation which is dependent on size, population, and industry.

Hence, Colma, with a high per capita figure, is 21st in total assessed valuation, for its smaller number of residents own a total of only $692,000 worth of property.

Figures Change
Hillsborough, first in per capita wealth, is ninth in value according to assessed valuation.

Daly City, with an assessed valuation of $7,057,000 takes 11th spot in value in San Mateo county.

Palo Alto is the leader with a valuation of $37,027,000; San Mateo, second, with $35,017; and Redwood City third with $20,329.

Taking a look at the counties, the average San Mateo County resident has $915 to his name. This compares with an average per capita figure of $1,118 for the nine-county central coast area.

"Cal-Vet" Loans

STATE WILL ADVANCE MONEY ON HOME

More than 25,000 veterans of World War II have taken advantage of the low-interest of "Cal-Vet" farm and home financing plan, and another 153,000 have established their eligibility for future participation, it was reported today by State Director of Veterans Affairs D. J. Calaghan, Jr.

World War II veterans, to whom the Farm and Home Purchase Program was opened in 1944, now outnumber the World War I veterans for whom it was originally established 29 years ago, Calaghan said. Approximately 20,000 of the older veterans have used the plan to acquire and maintain their own farms and homes at low financing cost.

Many Apply

New applications to establish eligibility for the "Cal-Vet" program are coming in at the rate of about 2,000 a month, while only about 700 veterans a month are currently entering into contract for the purchase of property.

"Many veterans," Calaghan explained, "want to have their eligibility on record while they are looking for a permanent home for their family. The certificate of eligibility which the Department of Veterans Affairs issues has no expiration date."

Eligible and qualified veterans may be advanced up to $7,500 on the purchase of a home or $13,500 on a farm, provided the value of the property, as determined by Department of Veterans Affairs appraisal, does not exceed $10,000 in the case of a home or $15,000 in the case of a farm.

To be eligible, a veteran must have been born in California or must have been a resident of this state at the time he entered military service.

Information and eligibility application forms are available from offices of the Department of Veterans Affairs in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Sacramento, San Diego, Long Beach, Oakland, Fresno, San Jose, Santa Barbara, San Bernardino or Bakersfield, or from county veterans service officers or directors of community veterans service centers.

MODERN CARGO HANDLING EXPLAINED

One of the busiest spots at the busy Oakland Naval Supply Center, where sea-going cargo is measured in millions of tons and hundreds of millions of dollars, is the Cargo Handling School, an interview with Read Admiral Murray L. Royer, SC, USN, Center commanding officer, revealed today.

A continual stream of regular and reserve Navy officers, enlisted men, ship crews, Marine, Army, Military Sea Transport Service and civilians keep the door hinges loose and active as eleven special courses are taught, waterfront experience is provided, and cargo handling takes on the "new look" of a science.

Modern materials and cargo handling with specialized packaging and preservation is highly scientific," Commander James W. Haggard, SC, USN, officer in charge of the school, says. "Storage, a ship's trim, stabilization and shoring all enter into the safe transport of munitions, clothing, food, planes, men and all the gear of sea warfare."

The Navy's increasingly difficult role of servicing ships at sea calls for crews of experts versed in the roles of handling cargo, materials handling equipment, "high line" methods which extend ways of transferring supplies while fleets and task forces are underway, stability, stowage and packing, Admiral Royer pointed out.

Mobile Aid
"Mobile support and amphibious operations such as just witnessed in our latest movements in Korea point out the importance of all the latest and best methods of personnel, cargo and materials handling," Admiral Royer continued. "Our supply lines from the Bay Area extended 5,000 miles. And here's what happened in one month: Navy, Army and Air Force personnel moved 40,000; over half a million tons of cargo, tanks, bulldozers, combat rations, bazookas, machine guns and rifles plus ammunition for the Army, bombs and rockets for Air Force and Navy planes, over two million barrels of fuel, including aviation gasoline—all were transported across the Pacific."

HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

January 6: Jim Wright, 1824 Louvain drive.
January 7: Letticia Mathieu, 80 West Cavour; Marian Rocchetta, box 113, Colma.
January 8: Rhoda B. Burke, 424 Selby Lane; Atherton; Donnie Salem, 121 Moltke.
January 9: Mrs. R. Rossi, 73 First avenue.
January 10: Marjorie Ringstad, 1512 Sweetwood drive.

CONTRACTORS PLEDGE WAGE FREEZE SUPPORT

Home builders and general contractors in San Mateo County this week pledged they would honor any presidential request for a wage freeze until March 1.

Also, a contractors' committee was named to deal with anticipated problems of material priority and wage freezes.

The committee will strive to line up the construction industry to carry out its part in any war effort that is coming up.

January 11: Richard Garibaldi, 7324 Mission.

What Are We To Do?

State Office of Civilian Defense
Answers Questions Of Communities

"What are we expected to do?" This and numerous related questions account for a large part of the daily mail received by the Office of Civil Defense from worried communities, large and small, throughout the state.

Answers to most of the queries were made by Maj. Gen. Walter M. Robertson, state director of Civil Defense, in a comprehensive bulletin to mayors and chairmen of county boards of supervisors released today.

Typical of the information sought by communities about their role in preparing for an atomic attack are the following questions and answers in the bulletin:

Q. "If our town is outside a designated target area can we forget about preparing for an atomic attack?"

A. The primary objective of towns outside the target areas—industrial and metropolitan centers—must be the support of these targets if they are attacked. Entire contiguous industrial and metropolitan areas must be considered as units in defense planning. These units can be city-wide, county-wide, or region-wide.

Q. "How far should we go in spending funds for civil defense before the Federal and State governments have established financial policies?"

A. Necessary funds should be expended to set up the organization and complete plans. Appreciable funds should not be expended for the procurement of civil defense material until its approval by the federal government. New Federal specifications for such equipment will be announced in the near future. Until then, use existing equipment.

Emergency Aid
Q. "Will the U. S. Civil Defense Office supply us with emergency radio equipment and emergency stand-by generators?"

A. It is possible the Federal government or the state may assist in purchasing communications equipment although no policy has yet been established. Meanwhile, it is felt that local civil defense organizations should plan their own Communications systems and make necessary purchases.

Q. "What is our responsibility with respect to organization and operation of the ground observation corps?"

A. It is contemplated at this time that local government will bear the expense of organizing and maintaining personnel for ground observation posts and filter centers. Observation posts will be under the direction of chief observers and the Continental Air Command will be in charge of filter centers.

Shelters
Q. "What type of shelter is required for a ground observation post?"

A. The Continental Air Command states: "Any room, house, store, school, garage, or even the top of a hill where there is an unobstructed view in all directions and a private telephone is not more than 15 seconds walking distance away will meet the necessary requirements."

Q. "Are the Federal and state governments going to assist financially in the establishment of control centers?"

A. Whether such assistance will be forthcoming has not yet been determined. Pending a decision, communities should install normal communication facilities in their control centers, supplemented, if possible, by emergency radio facilities.

Q. "What inventories should be taken now?"

A. The Federal Office of Civil Defense is preparing a manual of requirements. Until it is available, city, county, and state agencies should fully inventory all major items which may be required for civil defense. Except for selected items called for by the Office of Civil Defense, these inventories should be held at local levels.

Supplies
Q. "What is the Federal government going to do about stockpiling supplies, particularly medical supplies?"

A. Federal funds for stockpiling of supplies is dependent upon congressional appropriations. However, it is expected the federal government will provide limited quantities of supplies not normally purchased in peace time and will bear the principal cost of stockpiling medical supplies.

Q. "What should we do about training instructors and workers?"

A. All local training of instructors and workers should await the arrival of Federal instructional materials insofar as standard civil defense course material is concerned. However, those services already possessing training material, such as police auxiliary, fire-fighting, nurses' aides etc., may begin instruction at once.

Pay Boost

Grocery Clerks
May Get $5 Raise

Grocery clerks throughout San Mateo County and soon may be taking home $5 more a week.

Last week the San Francisco local of the AFL Retail Clerks Union announced acceptance of a $5 boost. It is expected that San Mateo County will soon follow suit.

Contracts for grocery clerks here does not expire until April, but the custom is that the county clerks receive the same pay as those in San Francisco.

San Francisco clerks, under the pay hike, now receive $70 a week, head clerks $75, managers $90, and apprentices $60.

"Record" Reminiscence

Ten Years Ago In The RECORD
Police Chief James G. Reardon was put in bed Friday with flu. His faithful assistant, Officer A. J. Dalton came down with flu the day before Christmas. Another officer, George Hopman, is under his wife's care at home. And to make it all complete Poundmaster Archie Banfield has been in bed for two weeks.

Daly City's selective service board completed recommendations last Tuesday evening for Dr. Theodore H. Paoli, Colma, as the fourth official draft physician from this area.

Re-electing their entire staff of officers without change, Company No. 2, DCFD, last week named Gus Ford as their captain for the third year. H. W. Rickman was chosen secretary for his eighteenth year of service.

With an average of 174 for the season's 39 games G. Garibaldi of the Universal Press team topped the Merchant's bowling league.

George Stubbles, former commander of American Legion Post No. 410, has been enjoying the holidays with his family at 821 Brunswick.

Winners will be selected today for the 10 most attractive home decorations in Garden Village during the holiday season.

to a grin, and then into a chuckle, and ended in a sound laugh.

Unfortunately this is not but imagination, for could it be more than a fanciful dream it would spell the end of our world turmoil. A man, a nation, that can laugh is a man who has enough introspective imagination to grant that he can not always be right, that he is not God. A man who can laugh, and we don't mean a fool, has the intelligence to reason. He is the man who through compassion and understanding will find a solution to any problem.

Impossible
But while this is impossible for the leaders, it is a real hope for the millions who fight the wars. United in laughter their peals of amusement could topple the men who would enslave them.

Granted, no hungry man, no man fighting is quick to laugh. Yet, because it is these very men who are the nucleus of political revolt and aggression respectively, they are the men laughter can free.

We were all born with the gift of laughter. It's too bad more weren't born with a sense that the world is mad. Nothing can cure insanity quicker than an individual and collective humorous examination of the factors that have made the world mad.

DON'T LOAD DEATH'S DICE

Just what chance would you and your family have against an enemy attack? And what are you doing to prepare against such an eventuality?

These two questions six months ago were purely academic. Today they are as real as the price of a first class funeral or a pound of coffee.

Anyone who reads this paper is familiar with the steps being taken by the city government towards realization of a comprehensive civilian defense organization. Whether the city fathers plan to put words into action, or plow along with talk until the city is plowed under by bombs still remains to be answered. It's up to the public to show enough interest in their own hides to show an equal interest in civilian defense.

To date, the council has set up a system by which there will be a large district and smaller sections under the supervision of two to five key personnel. This is good. It does away with the confusion of a hundred men and women running every which way, giving orders, and in general assisting the enemy more than their troops or guns.

This isn't to say that the individual isn't important, for no civilian defense program can function without your help.

The Red Cross has planned first aid classes early this month in San Francisco. (There are still no plans for first aid classes in Daly City.) Everyone should attend. A government manual on self preservation under A-Bomb attack is being distributed. Everyone should read it. The city is setting up its civilian defense organization. Everyone, who is not an actual part of the group, should become familiar with its workings.

These, as our leaders see it, are the principal means to the end of saving your life and the lives of your family.

Apathy has killed more fighting men and civilians than any other human frailty. It is up to you to see that your city and national government does not fall victim to a philosophy of "we can do it tomorrow." But more important, you, the individual, must do everything in your power to protect yourself and your family.

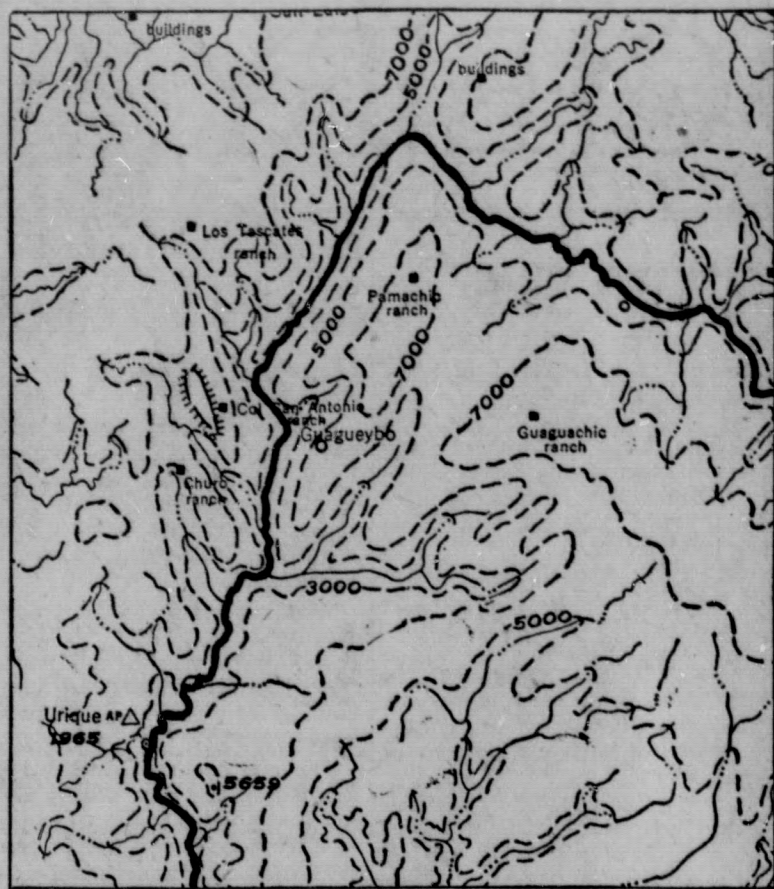

Demand the best civilian defense possible, and at the same time be prepared to take an active part in those same measures today which may save a mortician measuring the length of your coffin tomorrow.

DALY CITY'S MAILBOX BLOCKADE

That serve yourself mailbox in front of the Daly City Post Office is a nice thing to have around...as long as you don't have high blood pressure.

As everyone knows, the box was put into operation so the motorists could pop in his letters without getting out of his car. Trouble is, that all too often a car is parked directly in front of the box.

Now that a regular officer has been assigned to the parking meter detail, we believe he should pay careful attention to the post office spot. A few tickets on those cars might cut down the number of blockades to the mailbox, and incidentally save more than one motorist a case of letter nerves when he drives up to avail himself of a service which is cancelled out by parked cars.

MAP MAKING FROM THE AIR

The Aeronautical Chart Service, as a component of the Air Materiel Command, provides every kind of aeronautical chart and related materials required by the U. S. Air Force to perform its mission in peace and in war. It is the only United States organization which has on hand, and keeps current, aeronautical charts of all areas of the globe.

Those charts serve a multitude of purposes. Some are designed for air navigation, enabling the pilot to find his way readily from one place to another. Others provide information designed to assure his making safe instrument landings. Still others lead him to enemy targets. Another type of chart is used for the planning of air operations.

Aeronautical charts differ from maps. The charts furnish data which the aviator needs, as distinguished from maps which meet the requirements of the man on the ground. The task of keeping charting data up-to-date demands continuous research, a never-ending flow of the latest information, and an extremely flexible program of chart development to keep pace with or, where possible, to anticipate the chart needs of aviation as it expands in the field of high-speed, high-altitude jet aircraft and in other directions.

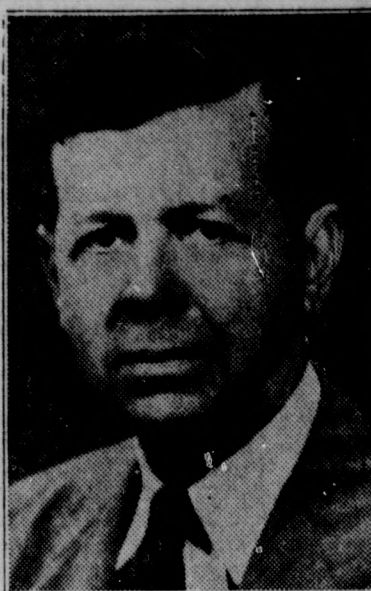

The Aeronautical Chart Service maintains close liaison with Air Force units everywhere to keep abreast of their changing requirements. It also coordinates its activities with those of Army and Navy map-and-chart-making agencies.

Shingle Shape Part Of House Design

A home-owner who is interested in achieving a distinctive appearance for his house can choose from several different shapes of roof shingles, each of which gives a different pattern when applied. Both individual and strip asphalt shingles are available with square butts or with tabs shaped to form a hexagonal pattern. All types of asphalt shingles are made in a full range of solid and blended colors.

Hammering English Into Students' Heads

Good construction is good construction whether it's in building or in grammar, says American Builder magazine. According to the publication, the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, is going to emphasize the similarity in teaching English to architecture students.

MARK S. WATSON

HISTORY OF WORLD WAR II—Volume I of the history of the War Department in World War II was issued December 15. It is entitled "Chief of Staff: Prewar Plans and Preparations." When the history is completed it will embrace nine volumes. The author of the first volume is Mark S. Watson, well-known newspaperman whose dispatches to the Baltimore Sun won him the Pulitzer Prize for international correspondence in 1945.

In 1933, when Hitler was rising to power, the author states, the U. S. Army was at its lowest effectiveness since World War I, standing seventeenth among the world's armies.

"In the thirties," the author adds, "when war clouds were mounting both in Europe and Asia, the Army had ample time to rebuild itself, but no money. When war broke out in Europe late in that decade, the Army was given more and more money, but time, far more precious than money, now was lacking."

The book is sold to the public by the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C., and will be available at most Federal depository libraries throughout the nation.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

A State of National Emergency Is Proclaimed by President Truman; Russia Threatens Western Europe

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.

Chinese Communists in the mountains of central North Korea prepared for another big sweep down the middle of Korea (broken arrow). Meanwhile, 60,000 United Nations troops were evacuated from the Hamhung-Hungnam beachhead after withdrawing from the Yalu river.

EMERGENCY: Near-War Footing

With a series of proclamations and executive orders, President Truman put the nation on a near-war footing. In a world-wide radio address the President proclaimed a national emergency and told the American people they must pay higher taxes, work longer hours, and give up many civilian goods to speed up the defense program.

"Our home, our nation, all the things we believe in, are in great danger," the President said in his address.

"The future of civilization depends on what we do—on what we do now and in the months ahead." He announced the administration would impose some wage-price controls and bring 3,500,000 men under arms "as soon as possible."

Then he outlined the buckling-down program:

1. Compulsory price ceilings "at once" on some items essential to defense production and the cost of living.
2. Voluntary ceilings over rest of the economy of publishing "fair standards of prices and wages."
3. To provide the necessary materials for defense production, a "cut back on many lines of civilian production" and expanded output of steel, copper, aluminum, electric power, and agricultural commodities.
4. Workers to labor more hours.
5. Still further taxes.
6. Federal spending for non-defense purposes slashed "to the minimum" in the fiscal 1952 budget.

Within hours after the declaration of a national emergency, the President created the Office of Defense Mobilization by executive order. The new office was given unprecedented power with full authority over civilian agencies already at work building United States war strength. Truman named Charles E. Wilson to head the agency. Wilson was president of General Electric.

Also within hours after the President's proclamation, the Economic Stabilization Agency froze the price of new automobiles at the level of December 1, 1950. The action rolled back price increases averaging five per cent announced by Ford, Chrysler, General Motors, and Nash, on the 1951 models.

The automobile industry protested the price roll-back and stopped the sale of some makes. Observers did not believe the protest would carry much weight in Washington.

Most observers believed the President had set the stage for further drastic curbs. There is no doubt but that a speed-up in rearmament—to suit the quickening tempo of the Kremlin time-table—will cause economic injuries. Some people are going to lose jobs. Some business men are going to lose money. And all Americans are going to find life a lot tougher.

Some observers believed it may be necessary to cut back civilian production as much as 30 to 50 per cent before war production can go into high gear.

WAR FUNDS

House Approves Huge Defense Measure

The house approved and sent to the senate a "first installment" defense appropriation amounting to $17,809,304,424. The Senate was expected to act on the bill within a matter of days.

The huge appropriation included $16,845,181,000 for the army, navy and air force—exactly what President Truman asked. The atomic energy commission got $840 million

Marines

The first truckloads of U. S. 1st marine division are shown above as they rolled into the area near Hamhung after their 12-day battle to free themselves from the death trap set by Chinese and North Korean Communists near the Changjin reservoir.

EUROPE: Reds Threaten

The Soviet Union did not say exactly what it would do, but in notes to Great Britain and France warned that the rearmament of Germany would not be tolerated. The threat brought a new feeling of crisis to western Europe.

The Kremlin sent notes to Britain and France which asserted:

1. Arming of Germans by Atlantic allies would violate the Potsdam pact of 1945.
2. Western Germany's inclusion in the Atlantic pact would invalidate Russia's alliance treaties with Britain and France.

A number of observers were asking if the Soviet warning wasn't the kind Red China made—and later fulfilled—as United Nations forces crossed the 38th parallel in Korea. Others, however, do not think the Communists are ready for all-out war.

The note is having its effect on western Europe and may slow down the execution of defense plans.

London described the Soviet note as a "patently tactical device" timed to coincide with the Brussels meeting.

MARSHALL: Opposes Full Mobilization

Defense Secretary Marshall is reported opposed to full mobilization now because there is still "a hope" that World War III may be averted.

Marshall's careful appraisal of the powder-keg world situation was given to a house appropriations subcommittee at a secret hearing. However, Marshall said he also believes that the United States must build up its armed forces to just-short-of-war footing as swiftly as possible because "a single word" from the Kremlin could start the holocaust at any time.

The defense secretary did not say exactly how far he believed U. S. mobilization should go. But he said the present goal of 2,771,000 men under arms by next July 1 must be increased substantially.

UNITED NATIONS: Political Stalemate

Although there was much less tension in the capitals of the world, diplomats at the United Nations continued to work feverishly in an attempt to head off a world-wide conflict. No workable solution for stopping the Korean war had been found, however, and the organization seemed locked in a political stalemate.

Russia declared that all foreign troops, including Chinese Communists "volunteers," should be withdrawn from Korea, but voted against a cease-fire proposal which the United Nations political committee approved by a vote of 51 to 5.

Russia's delegates harked again and again to the argument that the cease-fire formula was aimed at "saving the skins" of western troops—providing a "breathing spell" during which Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces could "reform their ranks" in preparation for a new attack.

The general assembly went ahead with its cease-fire plan by naming a three-man committee to seek the truce. Most observers believed they would not succeed.

ACHESON: Ouster Demanded

Secretary of State Dean Acheson flew to Brussels for a meeting with representatives of the Atlantic pact nations amid renewed pressure on the home front that he be fired from the state department.

The latest move for his ouster was made by senate and house Republicans. There was no White House comment on the Republican resolution.

Administration officials, however, reported President Truman was "absolutely determined" to stand by Acheson for the reason that he has served him exceptionally well. Some quarters reported the President considered the attack on Acheson to be an attack on the administration's foreign policy.

Acheson was reported to have said he would not resign and that he was making the Brussels trip because he felt the European peoples needed to be reassured that the United States is determined to help build up their defenses.

Some political observers expressed the opinion that the Republican demand for Acheson's ouster was timed badly. It was pointed out that lack of unified political support for Acheson in congress might embarrass him in relations with Atlantic pact foreign ministers.

RAIL TIE-UP: Walkout Called Off

Under pressure from President Truman, the federal courts and their own union officials, more than 10,000 striking rail yard workers ended their crippling three-day strike that caused one of the greatest freight stackups in the nation's history.

The strike ended without any wage settlement, although representatives of the railroads and four rail unions got together for joint bargaining talks at the White House.

The strike had caused mountainous stacks of Christmas packages to be bottled up in post offices and stranded in freight cars. War shipments had been halted in transit. Some railroads had curtailed passenger train schedules.

The union had demanded a 40-hour week at pay they received for 48 hours—the same benefits which were awarded previously to one million nonoperating workers.

A presidential fact-finding board recommended a 40-hour week, but at pay boost of only 18 cents. The union's demands amounted to 31 cents.

Contest

The Pillsbury baking contest was held at the Waldorf Astoria with housewives from throughout the nation competing for thousands of dollars in prizes. Mrs. William E. Brebner of Des Moines, Iowa, (left) is showing the Duke and Duchess of Windsor a little thing she whipped up and called "The Thing," after the current whacky song.

CHURCHILL: No Foolish Promises

Former Prime Minister Winston Churchill warned the western powers against the argument "that we must never use the atomic bomb until and unless it is used against us first."

"The argument is now put forward that we must never use the atomic bomb until and unless it is used against us first," Churchill said. "In other words, you must never fire until you are shot dead."

KATHLEEN NORRIS

No Sin So Black

"I AM A SINNER. I have done the thing that is unforgivable in a wife. No words can paint the shame and self-contempt I feel, or what I am suffering with remorse. If tearing myself to pieces would wipe out the events of the past two years, I would gladly tear myself to pieces."

This is a quotation from a letter that lies here on my desk. The writer signs only "Heartbroken Sinner." Therefore she must expect this open answer, and I am glad to make it, because her situation is not an entirely unusual one, and other women—still safe within the bounds of honor and self-respect—may profit by it in time.

"Our affair was all the more intoxicating," the letter goes on, "because our families were old friends, my husband and his wife sharing a daily coming and going with us, without ever suspecting that we had many secret meetings. On two occasions we were away from home for a few nights without causing comment; Fred claiming business, I supposedly with my aunt.

"Then came his long illness, due to bloodpoisoning, when I shared with his wife some of the sickroom care. At this time my eyes opened suddenly to the truth that he is an ordinary man with no unusual gifts, and also to the horror of my own position. Since his convalescence we have made no allusion to our affair, and have avoided ever being alone.

The thought that I may have someday to reveal to them what will change their whole attitude toward life drives me nearly mad.

"Strangely enough, as our girls grow up, my husband and I grow more closely united. My feeling for him is now one of admiration, companionship, interest. We plan together; together we make the little trips we always hoped to take. That I ever compared him disparagingly to another man, and betrayed his honor, is an unbearable thought. The urge to fling myself upon my husband's charity is so strong that I find myself walking the floor in a nervous misery, trying to control it. But that would mean that we lose our oldest friends, that my girls suffer a part of my shame, and possibly the misery of a divorce.

"I have spent hours on my knees. I beg you to take this to God before you assume the responsibility of answering me. At 37, have I destroyed all chance of happiness in my life?"

No, of course you haven't, is my answer. And this urge to confess is just one last little flick of the passion; one last chance to relish the whole thing over again.

One More Thrill
You were weak, and you chose a very ugly way to indulge that hunger that marks the end of youth. The hunger for just one more grand sex thrill, that comes to a woman somewhere in the thirties; a delight in finding herself desirable still, still capable of love secrets, stolen kisses, intoxicating flatteries.

Flatteries. That of course is the base of all these pitiful love affairs; flattery is what stirs the blood, flattery fills the eloquent little notes, flattery breathes through every whisper and every kiss. And how the neighbor's wife loves it, after the quiet duty and routine of her housekeeping days!

To my disturbed correspondent I say: there are many other infidelities in marriage beside the actual physical betrayal. Put this mistake behind you once and for all. Never dream of disturbing the four contented lives so close to your own with the exhibitionism of a confession. It would be pleasant to you to let them know that you won her husband, but not fair.

It wouldn't last. The wreckage of your neighbor's life, that of her husband and son, your husband's life, your young daughters' faith and love would be too wholesale a slaughter. There'd be no way out for anyone and the young persons would be scarred for life.

So your only course is the heroic one of living from now on entirely for others. Devote yourself to your husband, the girls, the home, the table, the sick neighbor, the neglected children down the block, the nearest hospital wards.

A Vet's Parents

They May Be Given Monthly Payments

Subject to income limitations and other requirements, dependent parents of a deceased veteran or serviceman whose death was due to military service in either World War I or II or in Korea may be eligible for monthly compensation payments, according to Floyd D. Granger, Veterans Service Officer, San Mateo County.

A single surviving parent, if eligible, may receive $60 a month. If both parents are alive, the Veterans Administration pays each of them $35 a month, Granger added.

Both dependency and relationship to the deceased veteran must be proved by copies of official records and by affidavits, however, and the use of official forms for the various documents involved will expedite the payment, he pointed out. In addition, there are many technical points to be understood, such as what kinds of income are or are not counted for the purpose of determining dependency.

Parents of deceased veterans or servicemen in San Mateo County may obtain complete information and expert assistance in the filing of death compensation at the Veterans Service Office, Courthouse, Redwood City.

AS THE STORY GOES

By LOU RASMUSSEN

"THE UNIVERSITY THAT HUNTED GHOSTS"

If you're the type of person that delights in telling "bogey stories" you would have enjoyed meeting Thomas Weldon Stanford. At one time Mr. Stanford was quite an authority on such things as spooks and vampires. He was undoubtedly the world's wealthiest spook hunter, a wizard with the ouija board, and perhaps the only mortal who could spot a phony ghost by the color of its sheets.

If for nothing else, posterity will remember that Thomas W. Stanford was the gentleman who willed to Stanford University one of the most dreadful rooms in the whole breadth of the land; a room sacred to the memory of spooks. To discover how the University acquired that strange room we must concern ourselves with such things as spiritualism, seances and ectoplasm.

Stanford University was founded by Leland Stanford. Of Leland much is known, but of his younger brother, Thomas W. Stanford, few have heard anything. As Alice in Wonderland would say—"Thomas was ever so much funnier."

For some time the school made a magnificent effort in attempting to settle for all time the probability of ghosts. Doctor Coover taught a course in psychic research for about thirty years and then it became evident that spook courses belonged in the next world, not on the Stanford campus. The course was done away with and to this day it's questionable as to whether or not there is a "bogey man."

Here's a little secret. If you're interested, there's still a "physical research fellowship" obtainable at Stanford University under the terms of Thomas W. Stanford's will. You may have a little trouble getting the school authorities to offer the fellowship. They might give you a mental test, look at you rather queerly and reach for the nearest phone. But don't give up... the scholarship is there.

Now dig out that old ouija board in the attic. You'll need something to do your homework on. (NEXT WEEK "The Amazing Madame Jumel")

One day Stanford grew tired of making money and took up spiritualism and spook hunting as a hobby. It grew to be a phobia. Before long seances were held in the Stanford mansion as regular as bank night at the neighborhood theater. He became the head of an organization known as "Spiritualists of Australia" and toured the world hunting for mediums who claimed they could materialize objects by some mystic force. Anything that pertained to psychic phenomena was of interest to Stanford.

When he found that note taking was too tedious, he hired a secretary to follow him around on his occult quests. In the course of 30 years the secretary made a ton and a half of verbatim notes. In the meantime Stanford began another weird collection. He began to gather those strange objects referred to in the spirit world as "apports." Apports are articles which are passed from the outer world and materialize during a seance as definite objects. An apport can be such astonishing things as stuffed birds, crumbling manuscripts, mosaics, or slates on which departed persons have written messages.

Search Continues For years Stanford carried on his odd work. He gathered together all the records of French and Italian scientific societies that had conducted studies on apparitions. Then in 1912 Stanford suddenly announced that he was not the one to decide if there were such things as ghosts. He sent $50,000 to his brother's university in America with a proposal. Stanford University was to get the money only with the stipulation that they found a "physical research fellowship" a chair solely for probability of spooks. The school hesitated, and then decided to embark on the great quest. Not long after that Thomas Stanford sent another half million dollars to increase the fund.

The Friday evening performance will begin at 8:30 p.m. the Saturday afternoon show at 2:00 p.m.

Golden Anniversary

DALY CITY COUPLE MARK 50 YEARS

Folk Dancing

Beginners Class Opens January 12

Everyone is doing it. What's that? Folk dancing, of course.

But I don't know those intricate steps. What am I going to do? Why not enroll in the beginners folk dancing class? It opens Friday, January 12, at 7:30 p.m. at Castle Hall, 7339 Mission Street.

Sounds like a good idea. But who is teaching the class? Those two experts, Murielle and Raymond Pabst. They have done a lot in the past years to make a good many Daly City residents expert on the folk dancer's floor.

That sounds good, to, but isn't it expensive? Not at all. These classes are sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department at a nominal cost.

In that case, you can count on me. I'll be at Castle Hall, Friday, January 12.

Bob is now teaching adult education classes at South San Francisco High School.

Orphanage To Mark Century

One Hundred Birthday Candles To Light Cake Of San Francisco Edgewood Home

One hundred candles will light the birthday cake that is scheduled to be cut February 2, 1951, at Edgewood, the San Francisco Protestant Orphanage.

This San Francisco charity for children has planned the occasion to salute a century devoted to care and training of 5859 California boys and girls left homeless by parental death, separation or other social problems.

Mrs. Atholl McBean, centennial chairman of the Edgewood board of directors, Thursday announced plans for the 100th Birthday Anniversary Party at a press and radio pre-luncheon and tour of Edgewood, 29th and Vincente.

"We are now 100 years old and we simply want the people of San Francisco to know what we have stood for during the last 100 years," Mrs. McBean told the group.

Dedication of the new $75,000 Millie B. Matson Recreation building by the Right Rev. Karl Block, bishop of the California Episcopal Diocese, will take place February 2nd at the 100th Birthday party.

Open house will be held for state and civic dignitaries, religious leaders, directors of charitable institutions and agencies, former Edgewood board members, financial and medical advisors and other friends of Edgewood. Hours will be from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m.

Expectant Mothers Aided

Early Pregnancy Complications Can Now Be Eradicated By Tests

Improvements in the management of complications of early pregnancy, including miscarriage, can be effected by special application of a test which has proved itself to be effective in diagnosing cancer of the cervix, lung and stomach.

This is reported by two physicians in the University of California School of Medicine, Dr. Ralph C. Benson, assistant professor, and Dr. Herbert F. Traut, professor of gynecology and obstetrics.

The test is the smear test in which cells from body fluids are stained and examined under the microscope. Cancer cells, when examined under the microscope by a trained observer, are distinctly different in appearance from normal cells. Much of the development of these cancer tests has been carried on by U. S. School of Medicine scientists.

The physicians applied the test to problems of pregnancy because, they pointed out, present methods of diagnosing these complications are not wholly satisfactory. The scientists studied 724 smears from 201 of questionable or abnormal early pregnancy.

Diagnoses They found that the test can be used to diagnose pregnancy itself in a large percentage of cases. The existence of a trend toward miscarriage can be determined. Evidence for incomplete miscarriage can be obtained. The termination of pregnancy can be established.

The scientists said that information obtained by the test can help to determine the treatment which should be given in the various complications of early pregnancy. Their work has been published in part in the Journal of Clinical Endocrinology. Their research has been supported by the U. S. Public Health Service.

Celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary this Saturday, January 6, are Mr. and Mrs. John Stura, 129 Oliver Street.

It also will be of a way of another anniversary, as it was almost 40 years ago to the day that the couple moved to Daly City from Trinidad, Colorado. It was in Trinidad that they were married.

Although Mr. Stura is pushing 75-years-young, he is still busy working a full week at his cement works. His wife, who although 70 looks much younger, doesn't have any trouble finding work, either. She keeps house and is active in her garden.

The Sturas have five children: Alby and William Stura of the Colma Auto Garage; Mrs. Stella Bruno, 252 Grand Avenue, San Francisco; Miss Letitia Stura of Redwood City, and Johnny Stura of San Francisco.

There are four grand children...

All of Daly City today congratulated the Sturas on a marriage which can well stand as a notable achievement in these modern days of divorce.

Long History Founded as a "home for destitute children" February 2, 1851, the San Francisco Protestant Orphanage has progressed step by step from a single cottage in Happy Valley to its present institution where the cottage system still prevails. The orphanage has kept pace with the historical development of San Francisco. It survived the cholera epidemic during the Gold Rush, earthquake and fire of 1906, two world wars and the 1918 influenza epidemic.

"We look forward to our next years, with great anxiety but with great determination, that somehow we must give the children of Edgewood the security of a home which exemplifies hope and a belief in our best American ideas and ideals," Mrs. Bowes said in presenting the Endowment Fund gifts to Edgewood.

Members of Colma Vista Grande Auxiliary No. 1448, FOE, are busy this week with last minute plans to greet sister members from 19 Bay Area Auxiliaries January 11.

The meeting is to be held that evening in the Blue Room of the Masonic Hall, 17 Hillcrest Drive. Following an exhibition of initiatory work, members and guests will be entertained by a selected program.

Mrs. Arthur Heyden is the program chairman while Mrs. Jack Mona is social chairman.

President Mrs. Lorene Gardner asks all Auxiliary members to be present and help make the meeting a memorable occasion.

17th District PTA To Meet First sectional meetings of Seventeenth District California Congress of Parents and Teachers for the New Year will convene in four San Mateo county Union High schools on Monday, January 8, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Representatives from each of the seventy-four local Parent-Teacher associations will attend at the high school in their area.

Southern section PTA people go to Sequoia Union High school in Redwood City; Coastside presidents and district chairmen gather at Half Moon Bay; Burlingame High School Little Theatre will be the locale for San Bruno and the Tri-City section; and the north county session is scheduled at Jefferson High in Daly City.

YOUR DALY CITY GARDEN CLUB NEWS

By ELSIE M. GARRISON

The colorful and beautiful Christmas displays, which were in evidence on so many homes throughout Daly City, including Westlake, Garden Village, Broadmoor and Edgewood and Hillside Terraces, were ample proof (if any were needed) that the north county residents are not only proud of their homes and communities, but bid fair to give even the big city a run for its money!

It follows of course, that these same residents in pursuance of a more beautiful home and garden, influence those around them, who might not be so sharp on the finer points of home gardening and care.

Christmas Spirit
While the Christmas spirit of "good will towards men," may have waned a little for some, the New Year resolution for every gardener could remain just that; to encourage in particular the neighbor whose efforts toward keeping his home in pleasant conformity have been unsatisfactory, even to a degree of neglect. The happy medium of gardening makes it possible to approach your neighbor in a helpful way. By giving plants and slips, a little advice and even a little help, you will fast cement relations so necessary to a co-operative community, as well as converting him to the satisfying experience of home gardening!

The Daly City Garden Club celebrated the holiday season with a "progressive tour" of homes, on the evening of Dec. 28, which proved to be very enjoyable indeed.

Future Words
Dr. Kerner, who is professor of history and director of the Institute of Slav Studies on the Berkeley campus of the University of California, said that the Moscow Politburo wrecked the hopes of peace beginning in 1945.

"The competent historian in the future," he added, "will name the Moscow Politburo as the aggressor in China and Korea, as it was in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania, Greece and Bulgaria and as the instigator of the Third World War, if and when it unfortunately begins."

Joaquin River to be created from land authorized for purchase by the Congress.

The program also suggests the organization of the landowners in the Grasslands area into a district for the purpose of conserving and developing drainage and underground water for all useful purposes, including the conservation of waterfowl, and to contract for such assistance as may be necessary. Should such action not be taken by July 1, 1953, it is proposed that additional waterfowl areas be acquired, developed, and operated by the State and Federal Governments to provide suitable waterfowl habitat. In such event, the water supply for such areas would be developed by the Bureau of Reclamation.

Cost Question
The program proposes that cost of Federal participation in the program be included in a non-reimbursable allocation for fish and wildlife conservation as a part of the Central Valley Project. The program involves not to exceed 7,000 acre-feet of water from existing Central Valley Project sources annually. Such additional water as may be necessary, including an estimated 40,000 acre-feet annually for the proposed Federal waterfowl management area, would management area, would be developed from other than existing project sources such as the return flow from present and new irrigation developments and a tapping of the underground water supply.

Sarto AC To Try Again

Daly City Nine Embark On Second Attempt To Break Into Championship

What was to have been the first leg of the Golden Gate Park League baseball championship for the Sarto Athletic Club Sunday turned into a two legged race.

And when the Les Vogel nine and the Sarto A.C. came across the finish line in the ninth inning the score was nicely tied at 10 to 10. This means the lads start off again on the first leg of the tourney this Sunday at the same park at 2 p.m. Don Mossi is expected to be on the mound for Sarto, and unlike last Sunday, hopes to bring in his boys a few points ahead of Vogel.

While Sunday Vogel wore out two pitchers Mossi stuck out the game for Sarto. The lanky pitcher has played better ball, but with the ground wet and the skys dripping dew he did well to hold down the Vogel lads to 16 hits.

That's a lot of hits. But oddly enough it was the same number stolen by Sarto from Vogel.

Benny Paradi looked the best of any of Sarto's nine, getting four for five.

Black Rock Fish Rearing Ponds Undergo Many Improvements

More efficient and economical operations for the State's Black Rock fish rearing ponds has been assured with completion of new construction and improvements made possible by California Wildlife Conservation Board appropriations.

The Black Rock ponds are operated by the Division of Fish and Game as an auxiliary to the Mt. Whitney fish hatchery at Independence. They have provided catchable-sized trout for stocking in the Inyo-Mono area since 1941. The 1949 production totalled 447,095 trout, weighing 125,270 pounds.

At a cost of $19,500, recent construction and improvements consist of two five-room personnel dwelling units, garage and equipment shed, domestic watersystem, and a bypass ditch for better cleaning and operation of ponds.

COOPERATIVE PROGRAM TO SAVE BIRDS

A cooperative program which has been worked out between two Department of the Interior agencies and the State of California to protect and improve the waterfowl habitat on the Pacific flyway was announced today by Secretary of the Interior, Oscar L. Chapman.

The proposal, if ratified by necessary executive and legislative action, would insure a water supply to flood grasslands in central California which are of major importance to migratory birds during the fall, winter, and early spring. It involves the development of water as a part of the Central Valley Project to replace water, the rights for which were purchased for irrigation purposes in 1939.

Agencies Involved
The agencies are the Bureau of Reclamation, which is in charge of construction and operation of the Central Valley Project, and the Fish and Wildlife Service. Collaborating is the California Fish and Game Commission. Essential to the fulfillment of the program is financing and development of additional water which is the key to most California resource protection and development.

The Grasslands area of the San Joaquin Valley is important as a wintering ground and as a link in the Pacific flyway which is used by ducks and other migratory birds in their seasonal flights north and south. The expanding agricultural development in the valley and particularly the purchase of the so-called "Grassland water rights" so that the water could be put to beneficial use in the southern San Joaquin Valley, has made necessary some protective measures for the migratory waterfowl.

1,837 Kelp Bass MARKED LAST YEAR

Three kelp bass tagging trips made during October in southern California waters resulted in 301 more of the ocean fish being marked to aid the State Division of Fish and Game in its studies of the effect of kelp harvesting on kelp bed fish population.

The number of kelp bass marked last year totals 1,837.

Marine biologists will continue the project designed to tag a significant number of the thousands of kelp and sand bass taken each year from coastal waters. Knowledge of growth and migration habits and other biological facts gained from returned tags is aiding the Bureau of Marine Fisheries to establish conservation policies and laws based on reliable information.

TOO MANY ANGLERS EQUAL TOO FEW TROUT

Colorado, like California and all other western states, shares the problem of too many anglers and too few trout. But a report from the Rocky Mountain State hints that a novel sliding bag limit has paid off in better fish conservation.

In order to spread catches throughout the five-month Colorado trout season, a bag limit of 10 fish a day is in effect during May and June, when the fish are hungry and can often be taken easily. The daily bag limit is then upped for the remainder of the season.

According to the Colorado Conservation Department, the arrangement permits anglers packing into the back country to make larger catches in remote waters, where fishing pressure is relatively light and a more generous limit is sound conservation.

Korean War

US Historian Advises Calling Communists' Bluff

"The next step, after the real failure to solve the Korean war which may be expected, is to call Soviet Russia's and Communist China's bluff on a world war," according to Dr. Robert J. Kerner. In an address before the Commonwealth Club of California recently he said that neither the Communists nor the democracies are prepared for a world war but that the Communists stand to lose more from an international war.

Straight Face
Foreign Minister Vishinsky and Chinese Communist General Wu told the world that highly organized, completely battle-ready Chinese Communist army divisions representing some 300,000 men or more are called "volunteers" in Korea," Dr. Kerner said.

"Their purpose is clear," he added. "It is to bluff and terrorize the free world into further fatal appeasements, to soften it for easy conquest, to lure it to sleep with a false peace movement, whose sole objective is to eliminate the one weapon—the atom bomb—that really frightens the war lords of the Kremlin."

Future Words
Dr. Kerner, who is professor of history and director of the Institute of Slav Studies on the Berkeley campus of the University of California, said that the Moscow Politburo wrecked the hopes of peace beginning in 1945.

"The competent historian in the future," he added, "will name the Moscow Politburo as the aggressor in China and Korea, as it was in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania, Greece and Bulgaria and as the instigator of the Third World War, if and when it unfortunately begins."

Adult Classes

UC Extension Spring Classes Open This Month

A wide range of subjects will be covered in University of California Extension's program of spring classes to be offered in the Bay Area beginning this month.

The courses to be given cover such subjects as business administration, engineering, languages, literature, art, history, political science, music, and the sciences. They have been designed both for the citizen who wants to study for professional advancement and for the person who wants to acquire a broader knowledge of his world and its cultures.

Persons who have always had that "urge to write," for instance, may choose from classes in magazine writing, the short story, advanced fiction writing, writing for children, poetry workshops, and manuscript analysis.

Other classes have been organized for such persons as the doctor who wants to bring himself up to date by learning about the latest techniques in medicine and the engineer who needs information on subjects like electronics or advanced soil mechanics.

Open To All
Most of the courses do not require a particular educational or professional background and are open to any adult who can pursue the work with profit. The importance of such "lifelong learning" as Extension offers was pointed out by Dr. Baldwin M. Woods, vice-president of the University—University Extension, who called attention to the fact that the average man now lives 20 to 25 years longer than his counterpart of a century ago.

More Years
"These additional years must prove a period of continued development," he said, "if we are to gain sufficient understanding of our problems to retain peace of mind in the midst of change." Catalogues describing the classes to be given in the Bay Area may be obtained by writing University Extension, University of California, Berkeley 4.

No More, No More Fire Commission Now Disbanded

One of the oldest organizations in Daly City, the Daly City Fire Department Commissioners, was disbanded this week.

The Commission, which has been in existence since 1906, was made up of representative from each of the fire department companies.

With the advent of the full time department January 16, the city council felt there was no longer a need for the Commission.

"We felt the Commission represented an overlap of duties which now will be performed by the regular department," Fire Chief Elmer Kennedy said today.

The now defunct Commission will be represented by one of its members in the new department. He is Mel Hansen, representative of Company No. 1, who will be employed as a full time fireman.

Other members who sat on the last Commission include: Dave Cafferata from Company No. 2; Dick Ennis, Company No. 4 and Ernest Martini, Company No. 6.

San Francisco's consolidated city-county government dates from 1856.

Auto Accidents Trends Change From Year To Year

Over the past few years there has been a marked change in the change in the trend of automobile accidents, though it has not been very effectively shown to the teenage group, we feel that there are many established reasons why.

1. It has not been definitely established in the minds of the teenagers what constitutes a good driver and a safe driver.

2. Many think that after having completed a course in Driver Education and possibly ten weeks behind the wheel of a vehicle, which is just barely enough to get by the driver license inspector, they are from then on good drivers.

Attitude

An expression of attitude is the most important phase in driving habits confronting the motorists today, and of course this brings up the important factor of lack of courtesy.

It might be set forth for all drivers that they should properly gear themselves to their training and experience, as well as their physical ability to determine how proficient they are with their operation. A good mechanic, engineer, musician, doctor, manufacturer, executive, athlete, etc., must spend years in training and experience to gain proficiency in doing their jobs properly and to be successful.

Full Time Job

With 40,000,000 motor vehicles in the United States, driving a motor car is a full time job on any street or highway in this country. Today our bus drivers, truck drivers, and transport drivers spend years learning and training to gain experience so that they may combat the elements on the road, to protect lives and equipment, and so that they may continue in their vocation without recess due to accidents while carrying out their assignments.

Warning

It is therefore fitting that we give a word of warning to the new drivers, and the old drivers, so that they will check their training and experience and their physical ability to operate a motor vehicle on the highway, and to determine how proficient they are in dealing with the elements they are confronted with in operating a vehicle safely and extending an expression of courtesy, which we feel is a matter of attitude that is lacking with the motoring public today.

All of the persons involved in the promotion of the Safety movement throughout the country are looking forward to the day when we can measure this progress by a very marked decrease in the accident frequency and severity rates throughout the nation, in face of the fact that we are always increasing our automobile registration.

Coordination

The California Association of Insurance Agents and the National Automobile Club, through a very comprehensive program in coordinating the Community Safety Council movement in California, feel that they are taking steps in the right direction in furthering this activity by promoting and sponsoring Driver Training Institutes in different universities and colleges throughout the State, and also by acting in behalf of the California Star Drivers, Inc., an organization set up primarily for the purpose of acknowledging safe driving on our streets and highways.

These two organizations have worked out a plan with the California Star Drivers so that they may award honorary membership cards, good for one year, in the California Star Drivers to high school students who have completed an authorized course in Driver Education and Training and have acquired their driver's license from the Department of Motor Vehicles.

POORLY LIGHTED CARS

Don't drive with only your parking lights at daybreak or dusk, warns the National Automobile Club. A poorly lighted car can be as great a danger as a car with no lights at all. If lights seem necessary, full headlights should be used.

Knitting Class

Marina High School Offers Instruction

The Marina Adult School announces the opening of a new class in knitting at the Marina Junior High School (Chestnut and Fillmore Streets) on Wednesday evenings from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m., beginning January 10, 1951.

Instruction will be given by an experienced and wellknown teacher of art needle work. The class will include a short history of knitting; information about the various implements and materials used; demonstration of fundamental and ornamental stitches; special techniques of joining yarns; making buttonholes and inserting zippers; pattern drafting for sweaters and dresses; blocking; assembling of garments and finishing; designing; how to knit according to measurements; and fitting.

Individual instruction will be given to students who are working on special projects. Lectures and demonstrations covering fundamental processes will be given to the class as a group.

The course is a public service of the San Francisco Unified School District and is, therefore, tuition-free. For further information, please telephone WALnut 1-2707.

GM Unveils Futuristic Test Car

An experiment in the automotive future is the low, sleek Le Sabre, a custom built sports car General Motors has unveiled in full-size model form. When completed this spring the actual car will be a "laboratory on wheels" to test advanced design and mechanical features for possible future use on production models. Only three-feet high at the cowl, the Le Sabre has a standard 6-inch ground clearance and ample passenger leg and head room. Magnesium and aluminum alloys are substituted for steel on the body and engine of the car, thereby greatly reducing its total weight. Harley J. Earl, GM vice president in charge of styling, shown with the car, said that it has been under development the past four years. The dramatic, sweeping lines of jet aircraft are incorporated in its styling theme.

Westwood, located in Lassen County, is reported by the National Automobile Club to boast one of the largest lumber mills in the world.

Humboldt County contains 3621 square miles.

GETTING FRONT LINE COMMISSIONS OUT THERE IN THE MUD—Nine master sergeants from nine different states were commissioned second lieutenants with little time out from the Korean shooting. When these new officers received their bars they returned to the firing line without further ado. In the Army's high command today there are not a few generals who started from the ranks. Left to right, front row, Patrick J. Stowell, Stanley, N. D.; Clifford D. Hamric, Columbus, Ga.; Curtis E. Ezell, Portland, Ore.; Paul Guzman, Carnegie, Pa.; and John R. Stodum, Mora, Minn. Second row, Arthur Smith, Wayne, Me.; Kenneth H. Smith, Long Beach, Calif.; Virgil L. Ward, Lenoir, Tenn.; and Milton G. Kitchens, Sand Springs, Okla.

Ed. Note. This is the first of a series of ten special articles.

California's unemployment insurance system is facing a financial crisis.

Despite record high employment, the reserve fund steadily is being reduced.

The year 1950, it is estimated, will have brought in contributions of about $167,000,000.

But experts in unemployment insurance statistics estimate that the total benefits paid out will amount to about $190,000,000.

This, during a year in which California had the highest employment figures in its history!

Benefits High

During 1949, when employment was less, but still was quite good, benefits paid out amounted to $253,000,000, while contributions paid in were $118,000,000 short of that amount.

This trend could reduce the state unemployment insurance fund to nothing, were it not for provisions in the law that require higher contributions when the reserve fund reaches a pre-determined low point.

More alarming is the fact that the 1949 high benefit payments were made when the labor force in California was only 3,953,000 people. Today it is at least 4,640,000.

Questions

What will happen when business conditions recede from their present high level is not anybody's guess—it is a certainty.

Higher contributions — or no fund!

This alarming condition is not entirely the result of "chiseling" or fraud. Certain basic faults in the act also are responsible for the excess of outgo over income.

But these loopholes together with chiseling and outright fraud are regarded as responsible for benefits amounting to about $60,000,000 to $75,000,000 a year.

This amount of money, if it were not being wrongfully paid, would add to the fund in 1950. Instead, final accounting for the year is expected to show a $23,000,000 decrease in the fund.

YOUR NEW SOCIAL SECURITY

By EDWARD J. FOLEY

Under the new social security law, the title "Widow's Current Insurance Benefit" is changed to "Mothers' Insurance Benefits."

This means more than a change of title. While, as before, insurance benefit payments will be made to a widow with a child in her care, provision is now made for payment of such benefits to a divorced wife of a deceased insured worker. It is now possible for a widow, and one or more divorced wives of a deceased insured worker to be entitled at the same time to insurance benefit payments based on his social security wage record.

In order to qualify as a former wife, as far as social security is concerned, the divorcee must be the natural mother of his son or daughter, or have legally adopted the insured worker's son or daughter while she was married to him or have been married to him at the time both of them adopted a child. In either case, the child must have been under 18 at the time of adoption.

In the case of a divorced wife, the old requirement of "Living With" him at the time of his death, is changed to "receiving at least half of her support" from him at the time of his death.

Children's benefits under amended social security will be the topic of my next article.

In a year-end report to the board of directors of the California Society for Crippled Children, Harry A. Mitchell, president of the statewide organization, praised the San Mateo Society for its extensive program of aid.

Reviewing the accomplishments of the San Mateo group, Mr. Mitchell called attention to the financial support given the El Portal School, and the provision of medical care for many crippled children throughout the county.

He also commended the Society for its individual counseling services, the provision of foster home care for handicapped children, the summer activities planned for children at the El Portal School, and the employment provided for many handicapped people.

The Crippled Children's Society of San Mateo County, of which Mrs. Richard Heilmann is president, will launch its fund appeal through the Easter Seal Campaign on February 25.

The San Mateo Society is one of the 41 organizations affiliated with the California Society for Crippled Children. Together these county societies cover approximately 98 per cent of the state's population. Their aim is the rehabilitation of every handicapped child in California. They do not duplicate

Three Banks Hike Interest Rates

Three banks in San Francisco have announced increases in the rate of interest to be paid on savings accounts, effective January 1.

The Bank of America, the San Francisco Bank and the Hibernia Bank have increased their savings interest rates from 1½ to 2 per cent.

Other California banks which have announced similar increases are the Oakland Bank of Commerce, Central Valley Bank of California, First National Bank of San Mateo County, Redwood City; Mechanics Bank of Richmond, and services offered by any other organization, public or private.

EASY TO BRING BACK

Those marred spots along the door at about the lock handle line are pretty common on today's automobiles, points out the National Automobile Club. They are generally the product of close parking on parking lots where the door lock of the car next in line is likely to strike your car when it is opened. A special job of touching them costs very little at the modern paint shop and you cannot tell the patch from the original paint.

Almost sixty per cent of the hunting license buyers in California live in cities under 10,000.

the Northern Counties Banks of Marysville.

Announcement of the new rate created a considerable stir in national banking circles, it was reported here.

FARMER'S MARKET ENDS SEVEN YEARS

As the famed San Francisco Farmers' Market contemplated a shut-down in February to permit new construction, the Market's Advisory Board reviewed the accomplishments of operations during the seven year, four month history of the popular surplus food outlet.

The market has firmly established itself as a self-supporting city institution, reporting receipts from farmers passing the $127,000 mark, with total sales of 80,000 tons of produce valued at some $17,000,000. More than 75,000 trucks had entered the market at the end of the year.

Outstanding project of 1950 was the inauguration of the so-called "San Francisco Plan" to utilize for relief purposes surplus potatoes from Tule Lake. The plan, successfully used here, was widely copied.

The $120,000 construction program at the market is due to get under way February 15.

California's State Water Resources Board was created by the Legislature in 1945.

San Francisco Locale For First Varietal Wine Tasting Meet

San Francisco will be the scene of the first tasting of varietal wines next week (Jan. 8) when eight California wineries in the small premium-production class will submit their product for tasting under newly adopted quality requirements of the Association of Chateau Wine Growers.

The new code, said to be the strictest ever enforced, requires the wines must be produced by Association members, must state on the label the varietal grapes from which they are made, must contain at least 85 per cent of the named variety (the federal law requires only 51 per cent) and to pass the tests must have the approval of "every member but one" of the Chateau Association.

OWENS LAKE

Owens Lake, located in Inyo County, is reported by the National Automobile Club to have been named after Richard Owen, one of the men in General John Charles Fremont's expedition of 1845. The new dry basin is seventeen miles long and ten miles wide and produces large quantities of soda ash.

Numerous large hot springs are located along a major fault which strikes northward through Alpine County.

Aliens Must Register INTERNAL SECURITY ACT EXPLAINED

All aliens are warned to familiarize themselves with those provisions of the Internal Security Act of 1950, concerning the filing of reports of their current address within 10 days after January 1, 1951, according to Bruce G. Barber, District Director, Immigration and Naturalization Service, San Francisco.

Attorney General J. Howard McGrath's recent announcement in Washington of the terms of the Internal Security Act stresses those provisions which require aliens to report their whereabouts.

The Requirements
Barber emphasized the fact that all aliens who are affected by the Security Act must comply. Failure to do so may subject them to fine or imprisonment. He explained that although the Alien Registration Act of 1940 is still in force, the Security Act provides for some changes in the manner of reporting addresses. He said the purpose of the law is of particular importance in the light of the present world situation and national emergency, but will work no hardship on any law-abiding alien.

Printed notices of the requirements will be found posted in local post offices, and a copy is enclosed herewith. Every alien who is required to register under the Alien Registration Act of 1940, and who is residing in the United States on January 1, 1951, and on the same date of each succeeding year, shall report his current address to the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization within 10 days of such dates.

Who Must Report
All aliens, except those temporarily admitted to the United States who have not overstayed the period of admission, and students whose period of admission has not yet expired. Those aliens who have applied for naturalization, but who do not yet hold a Certificate of Naturalization, are also required to report.

Any person who status as an alien is in doubt should submit an address report.

How To Report
Barber explained that the mechanics of reporting are simple and consist of filling out a special form entitled "Address Report Card," which may be obtained at any U. S. Post Office. It is important to read the instructions at the top and to note that the form is not to be placed in the U. S. mails, but must be handed to a postal clerk in any post office. The form should be filled out carefully and correctly and the alien registration number must be indicated. Such number appears on the official Registration Receipt Card. In the case of permanent residents, the number is prefixed by the letter "A," visitors by the letter "V" or the letter "T."

The information requested on the card should be printed in ink or indelible pencil, and signed. The card should not be bent, folded, creased, torn or in any mutilated, since it is designed for use in a tabulating machine. Children under the age of 14 should be reported by their parents or guardians.

In conclusion, Barber again urged that both aliens and citizens take cognizance of the importance of the Internal Security Act, and to cooperate with the Government in this time of national emergency.

Morro Rock, off the San Luis Obispo County shore, is called the Gibraltar of the Pacific, because of its resemblance to Gibraltar at the western entrance of the Mediterranean Sea.

FIGHTING HIS THIRD WAR—No ordinary soldier is M/Sgt. Arne Stenslie, 60 years old, of Devil's Lake, a member of the U. S. 25th Infantry Regiment, 2nd Division, just now slugging it out in Korea. He is a veteran of World War I and World War II, and two tours of duty in Korea. He resigned his commission of major to return to his comrades in the ranks when hostilities broke out last June. Here the Sergeant is recounting some of his experiences to William H. Burson, a press correspondent from Atlanta, Ga., during a lull in the fighting in North Korea.

AERIAL SURVEY: PICTURE OF MOUNTAIN TERRAIN—This Air Force aerial photograph shows a portion of the Bañanca de Cobre (Copper Canyon) of the Urique River in the State of Chihuahua, Mexico. Although the gorge never has been surveyed, the Aeronautical Chart Service knows that its maximum depth does not exceed 5,500 feet and that its length is about 80 miles. How can it tell? By using such photography as a measuring stick. Mechanical devices in the hands of skilled technicians examine the photographs, compare heights and depths and come up with the answers. Photos like this supply information essential to the making of the best aeronautical charts.

G.I. Education Bill Runs Out July, '51

Any World War II veteran in San Mateo County who has entitlement to education or training remaining to him under the '51 Bill of Rights had better take action immediately if he has any intention of using that entitlement in the future, according to Floyd D. Granger, Veterans Service Officer, San Mateo County.

The deadline date for the start of G.I. Bill training for most World War II veterans is July 25, 1951. If a veteran is not actually pursuing a course of study or training on that date (except for normal summer vacation) he forfeits all his future benefits in that respect.

"It's a case of 'speak now or forever hold your peace,'" Granger said. "And by 'now' I don't mean next summer. In actual practice, a veteran just about has to be enrolled for the Spring term if he wants to continue studying under the G.I. Bill next Fall and as long thereafter as his entitlement holds out. The veteran who waits another month or two may be out of luck."

Exceptions are made in a few special cases such as for teachers and pre-medical or pre-dental students, Granger explained. But even the veteran-student presently enrolled for under-graduate study which he will complete in June must file the proper documents without delay if he wants to continue as a graduate student next Fall.

Information and application forms are available to interested veterans at the Veterans Service Office, Courthouse, Redwood City. Both institutional and on-the-job training are affected by the July 25 cut-off date.

coran Company of San Mateo.

Jerry Jorostow, general manager of the Monarch Corporation, said that the newly acquired billboards are located on main highways in 23 Northern California counties. He indicated that the firm plans to continue with its present program of improving signs by the use of recently developed luminous paint materials and black light techniques. Both Wayne and Jorostow have been active for a number of years in advertising and publicity work on the Peninsula. Wayne was formerly president of the San Mateo Chamber of Commerce.

Burlingame Ad Firm Enlarges

A $50,000 expansion by the Monarch Advertising Corporation with the purchasing of the American Advertising Company's suburban highway billboards was announced today by Hugh A. Wayne, president of the firm which has its headquarters in Burlingame.

This is the first major step taken by the local company to enlarge its billboard holding since the corporation was formed a year ago upon the acquisition of the billboards formerly owned by the Cor-
